

BROWNSTONER

brooklyn inside and out

July 25, 2008

The Edge's Sales Office is Apparently Bumpin'

Sales might be down and out in the rest of the borough—by 43.6 percent compared to the second quarter of last year—but apparently things are bumpin' over at The Edge's sales office in Williamsburg. (Construction is humming along too, as you can see from the photo series above.) According to a spokeswoman for developer Douglaston Development, roughly 100 contracts have been signed since the first phase of the project was put on the market March 10. That's one contract per business day. We did point out that StreetEasy, which must be updated by the sales team, only lists two units sold, but she said the developer won't put out an official sales report until September. Units at The Edge range from $440,000 for a 490-square-foot studio to $2.735 million for a 2,544 square foot townhouse.

Miller Samuel Report: Sales Down: Bstone, Burg Prices Up [Brownstoner]